

1. Col. Richard Strathearn, 30th Space Wing vice commander, receives up-to-the-minute information from group commanders during one of the scenarios.

2. Senior Airman Danielle Martin, 30th Security Forces Squadron, assesses the situation on a terrorist threat from behind her squad car.

3. Engineer John Crotty, 30th Civil Engineer Squadron, and Firefighter Matt Polkow, 30th CES, secure 2nd Lt. Patrick Wilkerson, 30th Space Wing Public Affairs transition student, to a backboard for evacuation from a collapsed building.

4. Wearing a mask, Senior Airman Dante Sengstack, 30th CES, fulfills the role of a terrorist, telling Ken Fulton, Lompoc Unified School District bus driver, what to do next. The terrorist scenario included holding six children hostage on the bus.

5. Capt. Marcia Evans, 30th Logistics Group, runs through a contingency checklist with the battlestaff while Capt. David Albrecht, 30th Comptroller Squadron observes.

6. Fire Lt. Samuel Beaton directs responders to retrieve victims from the collapsed building.

7. Exercise Evaluation Team members are key to ensuring the wing's success in preparation for future Operational Readiness Inspection.

Foggy Shores

Preparing for 'real world'

Photography by Staff Sgt. Janice Cannon

